ANNUAL REPORT

A Holiday of Ethiopian Jewry

Yemin Orde's global community provides the basis for cultural celebrations that link the children to their past. Sigd is an ancient religious Ethiopian holiday that is marked at the Village with traditional clothing, food, singing and dancing.

Dear Friends,

The 2013 annual report provides a snapshot of our outstanding programs, the remarkable expansion of our methodology and the dedicated volunteers, staff and supporters who believe in us and actively invest in our mission.

In this report, we will share the inspiring stories of longtime supporters who found their own sense of renewal at Yemin Orde after suffering personal loss; the arduous journeys of our committed staff members; an update on our fire recovery efforts; and news on the growth of our network of partnerships with Yemin Orde Educational Initiatives (YOEI) throughout Israel.

In April 2014, Shmuli Bing, who served as the Village's popular high school principal, was selected to be Yemin Orde's new Director. He replaces Benny Fisher who resigned in December 2013 after accepting a top level position with Israel's Ministry of Education. Shmuli is highly experienced in education management and has a proven reputation as a skilled and dedicated educator.

The population of our youth continues to diversify. In September 2013, the Village welcomed 46 new French-speaking children whose immigrant families from Tunisia, Morocco, Algeria, North Africa and France, struggle with the same alienation issues and educational challenges as their Ethiopian, Brazilian and Russian-speaking counterparts.

With deep appreciation,

Michael Frieze
Chair

Charles Gwirtsman
Co-Chair

Karen Sallerson
Executive Director

These new students quickly acclimated to the Village's nurturing environment and much of their former frustrations with learning, language and self-confidence dissolved, making way for renewed self-awareness, hope and an excellent educational experience. We will welcome more French-speaking students in the Fall 2014.

Yemin Orde remains a beacon of hope for all children in Israel who suffer strife and who are in need of a warm and supportive environment in which to thrive.

YOEI continues its successful Village Way methodology expansion. We remain committed to fundraising efforts to meet our 2:1 challenge grant from the Marcus Foundation of Atlanta. Page 5 of this report offers a list of YOEI partner educational communities. Our expansion throughout Israel provides at-risk youth with a quality education and secure environment in which to grow and learn.

The Educational Initiatives and its Village Way methodology are making a significant difference in the lives of Israel's fragile children and education leaders are taking note. "The idea of a whole community – a whole village to raise a child – is very meaningful. I'd like to see the Department of Youth Advancement become a learning community of the various Village Way components," said a representative from Israel's Ministry of Education.

We are grateful to our investors for their trust as we work to help secure a bright future for Israel's fragile children. Thank you for your continued generosity and belief in our important mission. Together, we are building a stronger Israel.

YEMIN ORDE YOUTH VILLAGE: 60 Years of Transforming Young Lives

Yemin Orde Youth Village is home to hundreds of children and youth from around the world. Throughout its 60 year history, Yemin Orde has provided quality care, comfort and an exemplary education to tens of thousands of Israel's immigrant youth population, who represent a new generation of citizens and leaders in Israel. Today, 49 percent of our children are from Ethiopia, 30 percent are from the former Soviet Union, 12 percent are from French-speaking countries and 9 percent are from Brazil.

The children who live at Yemin Orde all have a unique story, yet they also have much in common:

- they are immigrants, often refugees,
- they have endured extreme poverty,
- they have suffered trauma, including abandonment, isolation, neglect and loss,
- they are vulnerable and at-risk of becoming victims of violence, unemployment and homelessness.

Yemin Orde operates on a 24/7 basis with quality extracurricular programs and services that most families would want for their own children. The Village remains connected to its graduates for life. Our partner, the Government of Israel, provides funding for 70 percent of the operating expenses. Friends of Yemin Orde provides the remaining 30 percent of funding to give these children the crucial missing pieces needed to become self-confident contributing members of Israeli society.

Thanks to your help, we are making a difference in the lives of children who are destined to lead Israel into the future.

YEMIN ORDE EDUCATIONAL INITIATIVES

Yemin Orde Educational Initiatives (YOEI) is an independent organization created in 2006 to extend Yemin Orde's unique methodology and transform other youth villages, therapeutic residences and public high schools in Israel. In this way, thousands more children can share in the benefits and success of the exemplary Yemin Orde model.

YOEI and its Derech Kfar (Village Way) Educational Institute have created an educational blueprint called the Village Way. This framework packages Yemin Orde Youth Village's successful living and learning environment into a defined curriculum for educators working with at-risk youth. The Educational Institute provides work plans, teacher training, workshops and financial support for implementing impactful programs in partner educational settings throughout Israel.

YOEI and the Educational Institute have offices located on the grounds of Yemin Orde Youth Village.

As of December, 2013, YOEI is working with 20 educational partners throughout Israel: seven youth villages, including Yemin Orde; three residential therapeutic schools; eight public high schools; and it also operates two pre-military gap year leadership programs for at-risk immigrant youth. Since beginning the program, YOEI has reached more than 3,500 children and 900 educators in public schools and youth villages for at-risk youth.

The Marcus Foundation of Atlanta is the primary partner of YOEI providing a 2:1 match for funds raised in support of expanding the program's reach to schools and villages throughout Israel.

YOEI oversees the Yemin Orde Pre-Military Leadership Program for Immigrant Youth (Mechina) to empower young Israeli immigrant men with leadership skills in preparation for military service and later in civilian life. The Yemin Orde Mechina is the only gap year leadership program in Israel that is specifically designated for immigrants. In 2013, YOEI opened a Mechina for young women who need to strengthen their leadership and life skills.

Educators are empowered by the YOEI methodology and the guidance and teamwork provided by their partnership. Israel's Ministry of Education has recognized this educational framework as being transformational. Two leading teaching colleges in Israel have incorporated the Village Way methodology in undergraduate and graduate degree programs.

EXCELLENT PROGRAMS AND A SUPPORTIVE COMMUNITY MAKE A WORLD OF DIFFERENCE TO OUR KIDS

At the core of the at-risk children's experience at Yemin Orde is the Village's uniquely dedicated professional staff of informal educators. This compassionate and important group provides our youth with caring and positive parent figures in their lives – a core element of the Village Way methodology.

The informal educators develop a special relationship with each child from their first day at Yemin Orde until well into adulthood. They are available to the children 24/7, 365 days a year, to share in all of life's moments: from joyous celebrations to disappointments. Our informal educators are part of what sets Yemin Orde apart from other educational communities.

Welcome to Our French-Speaking Youth

Yemin Orde welcomed 46 French-speaking children to the Village in 2013. Some of the children are coming directly from abroad and others immigrated to Israel in the last few years. They were welcomed to Yemin Orde in an effort to help them overcome their fears and further adjust to Israeli society, as well as to help them develop a positive attitude about the future in their new homeland.

Our French-speakers participate in the same after school activities and programs as their teenage counterparts at the Village. A volunteer who speaks French and is serving in Israel's national volunteer service helps them communicate, as well as other staff members including the Village's social worker and psychologist. The newly arrived teens are in the ninth, tenth and eleventh grades and also receive additional after school tutoring to help overcome any learning or achievement gaps that currently exist.

The Village plans to welcome an additional 40 to 50 French-speaking children in the Fall 2014.

Art and Music

Cultural arts enrich the lives of the children at Yemin Orde. Its art center, Beit Joie, is home to a variety of extracurricular activities such as art and music workshops, which are open to all children, regardless of age or skill level. There are also classes in photography, dance, sculpture, drama and individual musical instrument lessons.

Some children receive art and drama therapy, which helps express insecurities and other emotional complexities that typically confront traumatized youth. For those who show exceptional talent in the arts, the Village secures private lessons for the child in order to help build confidence and further skills.

Jewish Identity and Tikkun Olam

The concept of Tikkun Olam (to heal, repair and transform the world) is interwoven into the daily life of Yemin Orde with children volunteering both in and outside the Village. Tikkun Olam is an important healing aspect of Yemin Orde's philosophy.

Children are encouraged to volunteer in programs at retirement homes, after-school programs and in local hospitals, in addition to their Tikkun Olam activity in the Village. Through caring for others, the children find a meaningful way to work through their own traumas, build self-esteem and realize that they, too, can contribute to their new homeland and make a difference in the lives of others.

Transitions

The Village's Transitions (Hechven in Hebrew) program focuses on preparing our children for life after leaving Yemin Orde. Hechven provides the youth with programs on financial responsibility and life-skills, offers help with mental and emotional readiness for the next stage, and gives individual guidance to help all of the children gain a better understanding of their options so they can make better choices for themselves and their future.

The Hechven program puts Yemin Orde's children on equal footing with native-born Israeli kids in terms of their IDF knowledge and ability to make informed decisions that impact their lives. High school students meet graduates who have served in the Israel Defense Force (IDF), visit army bases, attend military ceremonies and learn about military service from enlisted soldiers.

The Hechven program also offers information about other choices open to youth following high school graduation: deferment of army service for one year to participate in a pre-military preparatory program (mechina); pursuit of a college degree; or participation in a one-year national volunteer service program.

Etgar (Challenge) Hike

Each year, Yemin Orde high school seniors participate in the Etgar "Challenge" Hike, a four-day trek from the Kinneret (Sea of Galilee) back to Yemin Orde – nearly 63 miles. This challenge is designed to build confidence, friendship, team spirit and cooperation among the kids. Staff members are along to help out, organize discussion groups and outdoor activities that encourage the teens to feel accomplished and deeply connected to the Land of Israel.

There is always time to stop along the way and appreciate Israel's beauty. At the end of the journey, the entire Village welcomes the hikers back with great enthusiasm, marking the occasion with music and celebration.

All Etgar participants receive a special pin to commemorate their outstanding achievement. The 12th graders also pass on "the key to the Village" to each 11th grader, with an eye on a bright future ahead. This program is one of the highlights of the children's senior year.

Graduate Omer Sisai, an optometrist, provides eye exams to the Village's children.

Graduates Day 2013

OUR GRADUATE PROGRAM IS UNIQUE

Years after graduating Yemin Orde, its formerly fragile children are accomplished and productive citizens of Israel. The Village's support structures provide ongoing mentoring, social interaction, financial assistance and comfort – much like most normative family environments.

Yemin Orde's "Home Away From Home" Graduate House is available for short or lengthy stays. The graduate program provides scholarships, career guidance and personal counseling. Many graduates live in Israel without family or close friends and the Village is their only home and safe haven.

The Village maintains an open door policy for graduates serving in the military. The Graduate House is available for weekend stays or breaks from active duty. The Village provides care packages for "lone soldiers" and Yemin Orde staff and children attend special military ceremonies. Often graduates return to Yemin Orde to celebrate holidays and lifecycle events. These lifelong connections to the Village are woven into the fabric of our graduate's lives.

The annual Graduates Day at Yemin Orde is special because it recognizes the achievements of graduates as they strive to improve their lives through higher education or technical training. On this day, graduates who are experiencing financial hardship and who are stressed in their studies return to the Village to receive scholarships provided by Yemin Orde. More importantly, they meet and talk to the younger children to give them encouragement and incentive to study hard and achieve their dreams. The graduates are seen as positive role models and their stories of both success and struggle are fully absorbed by the younger children.

Yemin Orde graduates hold jobs in nearly every facet of Israeli life. Our graduates are national and community political leaders and military leaders, health care and life science professionals, business and technology professionals, educators, writers, artists and more. Indeed, their achievements are remarkable.

DONOR SPOTLIGHT ARTHUR AND LINDA SCHWARTZ

Arthur and Linda Schwartz, of Swampscott, MA, are Friends of Yemin Orde's longest and most consistent supporters. Their connection to Yemin Orde is personal and inspiring and brings much delight and contentment to so many of the Village's emotionally-fragile children.

In 1995, the Schwartzes visited the Village while in Israel to attend a family wedding. Arthur and Linda met Chaim Peri and an instant friendship was formed. They appreciated Chaim's work in transforming the lives of children and decided to memorialize the life of Arthur's daughter, Joie, who was involved in the arts, by helping to build Yemin Orde's art center, now called Beit Joie. Today, Beit Joie is filled with art and music and brings fun activities and enjoyment to all the children of Yemin Orde.

TEN CORE COMPONENTS OF THE VILLAGE WAY

Developed by Dr. Chaim Peri who directed Yemin Orde Youth Village for nearly 30 years.

- Anchors in the Past: Recognizing positive personal narratives, sharing communal history and honoring cultural traditions.
- Anchors in the Future: Designing future plans, learning life skills, supporting graduates and reaffirming communal values.
- Earth (physical environment): Creating a welcoming and comfortable home-like environment.
- Sky (spiritual environment): Reinforcing communal values and national identity, marking traditions and promoting moral judgment.
- Tikkun Ha'Lev (repairing the heart): Providing emotional healing and building confidence despite setbacks or crises.
- Tikkun Olam (repairing the world): Participating in community service to help others and have a valued role in community.
- Reliable Representations of Parental Wholeness: Placing importance on educators in a child's life, involving parents in community, and empowering parents and children to respect each other.
- Community of Meaning: Taking pride in community and spreading values beyond its borders.
- Dialogue: Encouraging open and respectful dialogue between adult and youth.
- Minimizing Institutional Characteristics: Building a community that reflects a more humanistic environment.

STAFF HEROES: DOTAN LEVI AND RACHELI YASO-NGATUO

Dotan Levi

As the Director of the Derech Kfar (Village Way) Educational Institute, Dotan Levi, 44, is guiding a grassroots educational movement for educators working with at-risk and immigrant youth. Through Dotan's leadership and the Institute's successful educational methodology called the Village Way, educators in Israel's youth villages, public high schools and therapeutic residences are empowered to help transform the lives of the youth in their care.

Dotan is no stranger to such communities – he worked for over ten years at Yemin Orde Youth Village as a teacher, informal educator, and eventually the Director of Informal Education. This experience provides him with a deep awareness of the challenges that educators face while working with this population, as well as the achievements that are possible in these frameworks with the right philosophy, guidance, and support.

Dotan believes that through the insights of the Village Way, educators are reminded why they chose to teach in the first place. “When the staff of educators is strong, when they are focusing on important principles and on the quality of the connection between educators and youth – the kids are impacted in positive ways,” he says.

Dotan is a first generation Israeli whose parents emigrated from Morocco to the seaside community of Bat Yam, near Tel Aviv. He began working with Ethiopian immigrants as a teenager in his neighborhood, eventually bringing them into the Bnei Akiva youth movement and establishing its Immigrant Absorption Department. Dotan has continued to work with this community throughout his life, and has traveled to Ethiopia to help Yemin Orde graduates reconnect to family members and to train Village leadership.

“Dotan has a gift for bringing out the best in kids, educators and colleagues,” said Susan Weijel, Deputy Director, Yemin Orde Educational Initiatives. “He is a brilliant educator who brought the vision of expanding the Village Way methodology throughout Israel into reality.”

- Father of five children
- Lectures in schools and in the IDF on understanding Ethiopian culture and immigrant absorption
- Holds an M.A. in Jewish History and Traditional Literature
- Has facilitated the immigration of individuals from Ethiopia to Israel

Racheli Yaso-Ngatu will forever be a “youth village girl.”

Racheli, 37, who serves as Yemin Orde Youth Village’s Director of Visitor Relations and Outreach, has spent much of her life in Israel’s youth villages. First, as a nervous youngster learning to adjust to her new homeland and today, as a compassionate professional mentoring hundreds of Israel’s at-risk immigrant youth. Racheli sees her own story clearly in the daily struggles of the fragile children at the Village.

“I remember, when at the age of 9, I went to sign the mortgage papers with my parents because they didn’t know Hebrew,” said Racheli. “You grow up surviving the horrible things in places like Sudan for a dream about Jerusalem and then realize that reality is very different from what you were longing for and imagining all your life. You have to grow up really fast.”

Racheli and her family emigrated from Ethiopia to Israel in 1984 during Operation Moses, a covert Israeli operation that airlifted Ethiopian Jews from Sudan. Her family settled in Israel’s northern region, and Racheli and her brother went to live at the nearby Kfar Hasidim youth village. Her cousins attended Yemin Orde so she was familiar with the exciting cultural and educational opportunities there.

Today, it is hard to find anyone at Yemin Orde who has not been touched by Racheli’s warmth. When visitors arrive at Yemin Orde, Racheli is most likely the first person they meet. It is through Racheli and her powerful and heartbreaking stories of Israel’s at-risk children that we come to understand the miracle of the Village’s effective educational methodology, the Village Way.

“I am so lucky to work in a place where everyone, even me, can make a difference in a child’s life. You never know how you’ll influence someone. In Yemin Orde, kids are surrounded by many meaningful people every day – a house mother, a counselor who wakes them each morning, the kitchen team during meals, teachers in school, and many more. Each and every one of these people has influence on a child’s life.”

At A Glance

- Wanted to be a police officer before joining the Yemin Orde staff
- Racheli’s father worked for Mossad in Sudan
- Served in the IDF as a soldier-teacher for at-risk kids
- Studied Social Science and Criminology at Ariel College
- Racheli lives with her husband and two boys at Yemin Orde. She is expecting a third child in August 2014.

VISITORS ARE ALWAYS WELCOME AT THE VILLAGE

Yemin Orde receives hundreds of visitors from around the world: individuals, families, Jewish federations, Jewish National Fund, synagogues, churches – all of whom are invited to tour the Village and meet the children. In 2013, we welcomed U.S. Members of Congress and other political leaders, educators, athletes and more.

Additionally, Friends of Yemin Orde has organized customized leadership missions to Israel that included a special tour of the Village and other youth villages and public high schools that partner with Yemin Orde Educational Initiatives.

If you are planning a trip to Israel, Friends of Yemin Orde will be happy to arrange a visit to the Village for you or your group. Simply call our national office at 202-237-0286 or email info@yeminorde.org.

THE ELIJAH E. CUMMINGS YOUTH PROGRAM IN ISRAEL

This two-year leadership program is based in Baltimore, MD and was created by U.S. Congressman Elijah E. Cummings and the Baltimore Jewish Council. Through the program, African-American high school students learn about the Jewish religion and traditions in an effort to strengthen understanding and build friendship between the two communities.

After one year in the Cummings program, the U.S. teens visit Yemin Orde to participate in a three-week cultural exchange program with their Israeli counterparts at the Village. The two groups travel around Israel together and learn about each other's lives.

Between 12 and 15 youth from Yemin Orde take part in this program each year. The Cummings program and its focus on leadership, bridge-building and friendship helps our children take pride in their Israeli nationality and connects them deeper to their new homeland.

REBUILDING PROJECT CONTINUES ON SCHEDULE

A major rebuilding project is underway at Yemin Orde Youth Village as a result of the wildfire that struck the Village in December 2010. Soon, there will be a new 2,150 square foot library with 10 computer stations, an abundance of shelving for books and other media collections, and several meeting spaces that will serve as classrooms, research centers or gathering spots for large and small groups. In addition, two children's homes are now completed as well as 10 new staff homes.

Construction is nearly complete on new administrative and graduate offices and a central clubhouse for educators and staff. The new perimeter road around the entire Village is also underway, which will enhance safety by restricting the central area to pedestrian traffic only.

The Village will continue to focus on enhancements to older buildings and other capital projects that were delayed because of the fire.

New staff homes.

Our Growth in Recent Years

YOUR DOLLARS AT WORK IN 2013

Your support helped close a $7,000 per child gap between Israel government assistance and actual costs to maintain the high quality education and activities for the children at Yemin Orde. Additionally, your gift allowed Yemin Orde Educational Initiatives to train more educators in the Village Way methodology who, in turn, transform hundreds of young lives throughout Israel.

Here are some of the ways your caring has touched the lives of children.

Yemin Orde Tikkun Ha'Lev Award

Josh Weston received the 2013 Yemin Orde Tikkun Ha'Lev Award for his longtime philanthropic and humanitarian endeavors on behalf of Israel's at-risk youth. Weston has actively supported the Village's robotics program, which helps teens learn new skills, gain self-confidence and spark interest in science and technology. He also launched the Weston Challenges that successfully generated nationwide robust fundraising efforts.
